Eagle Athletic Foundation to provide financial support to MSU sports

For the first time in its 56-year history, Morehead State University is turning to private funding sources to help finance intercollegiate athletics.

MSU President Morris L. Norfleet and a group of Morehead businessmen have announced the formation of the Eagle Athletic Foundation as a fund-raising organization for athletics.

"We feel the foundation offers an excellent opportunity for our alumni and other friends who wish to give direct financial support to intercollegiate athletics," Dr. Norfleet said. "The funds will be handled in strict compliance with NCAA, AIAW and OVC rules and regulations and the foundation definitely will not be involved in the management of our athletic program."

Acting president of the foundation is Harold Bellamy, Morehead insurance executive.

"We feel the University cannot continue to upgrade its athletic program on the funds available now," Bellamy said. "The time is right to accept outside money to help men's and women's sports in an appropriate manner."

He said the donated funds would be disbursed by the University and that supporters could earmark their gifts for certain sports or for the total athletic program.

Dr. Norfleet said the money would be used to support recruiting and other "legitimate" needs of MSU's eight men's sports and six women's sports.

MSU Athletic Director G.E. (Sonny) Moran also is optimistic about the new organization.

"This matter has been studied carefully for more than a year and we believe the foundation is the right course of action for the future of our athletic program," Moran said. "All of us are excited about the prospect of this additional support and we intend to make wise use of the money."

Bellamy reported that MSU's season ticket holders in football and basketball had been invited to an informal meeting to discuss the foundation and that the response had been "tremendous."

Membership categories have been created with privileges for each contribution level, ranging from $25 to $1,000 or more.

Appalachian Development Center director named

President Norfleet has announced the appointment of Dr. James R. Leonard as director of MSU's new Appalachian Development Center.

Currently a management assistant for the Knoxville-Knox County Manpower Consortium in Knoxville, Tenn., the 36-year-old Leonard was selected from more than 60 applicants to become the center's first director. He will assume the post in September.

"Dr. Leonard is a native of Appalachia with a wealth of training and experience in planning and development activities," Dr. Norfleet said. "We are pleased that he has accepted this challenging position in such a vital area of the University."

The new director holds bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees from the University of Tennessee. His administrative experience includes positions in Tennessee, Maryland, New Hampshire and Alaska.

Dr. Leonard is married and the father of two children.

Neal Brittain announces resignation

Neal L. Brittain, director of safety and security, is resigning to return to the Kentucky State Police.

President Norfleet said the former KSP sergeant would leave his University post in September.

Gary G. Messer, an associate director of MSU's 13-member security force, has been named acting director and a search for a permanent replacement will begin immediately.

Brittain came to MSU in July, 1977.

WMKY joins Kentucky State Network

MSU campus radio station WMKY has expanded its overall news coverage and service in Eastern Kentucky with the addition of Kentucky State Network reports.

WMKY can now report more local, regional and state news, sports and agriculture segments, providing what Larry Netherton, WMKY general manager, calls "probably the best regular and consistent news coverage for the Commonwealth."

Outing to Reds-Giants game planned

The University Social Committee is sponsoring a trip to the Cincinnati Reds baseball game.

The game will be Saturday, Sept. 9, 7 p.m. and feature the Reds hosting the San Francisco Giants.

A limited number of tickets are available.

Total cost is $8 per person and includes ticket to the game, transportation via University Greyhound. The bus will leave the ADUC at 4 p.m. Sept. 9.

Additional information is available from Modonna Huffman, HM 303, 3323 or 3825.

National security topic of discussions

National Security will be discussed in military science classes by guest speakers.

All addresses will be at 10:20 a.m. in room 112 of Rader Hall.

Dr. James Gotsick, psychology, opened the guest series today, discussing "The Psychology of Aggression."

Dr. June Dreyer of Miami (Ohio) University will speak Aug. 31, on "International Implications of Sino-Soviet Relations." She is currently on leave as Far East Specialist at the Library of Congress.

Brig. Gen. Richard W. Phillips, Jr., deputy director for development, Department of Air Force, will speak Sept. 7, on "U.S. Air Force Capabilities in the 1980's."

Dr. Lindsey Back, political science, will discuss "The Historical Impact of Communism," Sept. 5.

The programs are free and open to the public.

Movies scheduled for semester

The MSU Program Council will present top movies this semester beginning Aug. 30, with "Good-bye Girl."

Other movies scheduled this month include: Sept. 6, "The Exorcist"; Sept. 13, "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore"; Sept. 20, "McCabe and Mrs. Miller"; Sept. 27, "What's Up Doc."

"How to" news brochure available

A brochure containing 20 questions and answers about publicizing MSU, its people and programs has been prepared by the Office of News Services, Division of Public Affairs.

The brochure gives tips on what is of news value to community media and the best ways to get information to the media.

The brochure will be mailed to all faculty and staff within the week.

Cliff Johnson paintings loaned to MSU Gallery

One man's fascination with one-room schools in Eastern Kentucky now can be shared by all who visit MSU's Claypool-Young Art Gallery.

The late Cliff Johnson produced more than 300 oil and acrylic paintings during his eight-year career and 13 of his works have been loaned to MSU on a long-term basis by his estate. The works on loan have been appraised at more than $9,000.

Dr. Bill Booth, head of the Department of Art, said the paintings will be displayed at MSU for at least one year. "This exhibit will give our people an opportunity to see how education has progressed in Eastern Kentucky," he stated.

Don Johnson, son of the artist and administrator of the estate, said the loan was the result of his father's affection for the Morehead area. "He started painting in Morehead and fell in love with the people of this area," the son said. "He didn't start painting until he was about 60 and his main interests were landscapes and covered bridges and one-room schoolhouses. And he painted all of the schools in their natural settings."

Among the paintings loaned to MSU are scenes of the Cora Wilson Stewart Moonlight Schoolhouse and the Kingdom Come School in Letcher County which was painted in fall and winter.

Dr. Booth has announced that the University will conduct a Cliff Johnson Memorial Scholarship Art Auction in November with the proceeds going for the scholarship fund which bears Johnson's name and benefits MSU art students. The auction will include one of his works.

Inez Humphrey dead at 96

Inez Faith Humphrey, one of MSU's original faculty members, died last week in Palmyra, Ill., at the age of 96.

An associate professor of English at the time of her retirement in 1951, she came to Morehead in 1916 to join the faculty of the Morehead Christian Normal School.

She moved to the faculty of Morehead State Normal School in 1923 as one of the institution's eight teachers.

A married student apartment building at MSU was named in her honor in 1960. Her funeral and burial were in her native Palmyra, her residence since 1963.

Miss Humphrey, known to her students as "The Little Old Lady in Lace," was active in the First Christian Church of Morehead.

Coed in Miss America Pageant

If you are planning to watch the Miss America Pageant this Saturday night on NBC-TV, don't be surprised when you hear the name of MSU.

Ivy Meadows, a sophomore from St. Albans, W. Va., will be competing as "Miss West Virginia." She won the Mountain State pageant last summer.

Ivy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Meadows of St. Albans. The Miss America Pageant will be televised at 10 p.m. on Channels 3 and 4 of the Morehead cable system.

Football tickets still available

Opening of the 1978 football season is about 10 days way and Head Coach Wayne Chapman and his staff are busily preparing for the opening game at home against Kentucky State on Sept. 16. The kickoff is set for 1:30 p.m. at Jayne Stadium.

Heading the list of returnees for the Eagles is senior quarterback Phil Simms, last year's top offensive player in the Ohio Valley Conference and a candidate for All-America honors and the pro draft this season.

Kentucky State opened its season last weekend with a 27-13 victory over Fayetteville State. The Thorobreds are coached by LeRoy Smith.

MSU faculty and staff members still have time to purchase season tickets, according to Assistant Athletic Director John (Sonny) Allen. Faculty and staff members receive a 50 percent discount on season tickets and plenty of good seats are available, he added. Information on season tickets and individual game tickets are available from Allen at extension 3335.

Forbes heads Appalachian collection

Dr. John M. Forbes of Lexington has been named coordinator of MSU's Appalachian Library Collection. He is responsible for the acquisition, organization, utilization and dissemination of the Appalachian material which will be housed primarily on the top floor of the Julian M. Carroll Library Tower.

Dr. Forbes holds a bachelor's degree from Alma College, a master's from the University of Kentucky and a doctorate from the University of Michigan. He holds a second master's from Central Michigan University.

The Appalachian Library Collection is a component of the Appalachian Development Center.

Dr. Forbes is married and has one daughter.

"Perfect" students to be recognized

Final details are being arranged for a joint effort to honor MSU's alumni who have achieved perfect 4.0 grade point averages during their undergraduate studies.

The University Honors Committee and the MSU chapter of the Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi have recommended that such graduates be recognized with an engraved plaque to be displayed at the Library. Phi Kappa Phi will bear most of the expense involved.

President Norfleet has approved the project and asked Dr. John Kleber, chairman of the Honors Committee, and Dr. John Philley, Phi Kappa Phi president, to make the necessary arrangements.

Trail Blazer on Wednesdays

Starting this week, The Trail Blazer will be published and distributed on Wednesdays instead of Tuesdays.

W. David Brown, advisor to the weekly student paper, said the publication date was changed at the request of the Kentucky Publishing Co., which prints the paper.

"The new date is better for the Morehead News because of their twice-weekly schedule and it also has some advantages for The Trail Blazer in coverage of weekend events," he said.

The Trail Blazer is distributed free to students and faculty and staff members. Mail subscriptions also are available. Inquiries should be directed to extension 3249.

Arts Council sponsors 7 programs

Seven programs are scheduled this year in the "Arts in Morehead" (AIM) series of the Morehead-Rowan County Arts Council. MSU is a co-sponsor.

Also involved are the Kentucky Arts Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The series opens Friday, Sept. 15, with a presentation of "Purrzass," by the Southern Educational Theatre. Curtain time is 8 p.m. at Button Auditorium.

Family season tickets are $15. Individual season tickets are $8. Tickets for single programs, when available, will be $4.

Other programs on the 1978-79 calendar include The Appalshop, Oct. 20; Dr. David Hoy, mentalist, Nov. 3; Blue Apple Players, Dec. 8; Cincinnati Chamber Orchestra, Jan. 19; Frank Holder Dance Co., Feb. 16; and McLain Family Band, April 13.

All programs are scheduled for Button on Friday nights. Additional information is available from Dr. Paul Ford Davis or Jean Wiggins or other members of the Arts Council.

Names in the News

DR. ROGER JONES, art, wrote 29 biographical sketches in the three-volume "Dictionary of Eminent Educators" which was published recently by Greenwood Press. The work was edited by Dr. John Ohles of Kent State University.

LARRY DALES, Breck, received two blue ribbons for achievement in photographic portraiture during the recent area meeting of the Kentucky Professional Photographers Association in Louisville.

MSU co-sponsoring "Arts in Morehead" series; season tickets on sale

MSU has become a co-sponsor of the "Arts in Morehead" series developed by the Morehead-Rowan County Arts Council.

President Norfleet and Dr. Paul Ford Davis, president of the Arts Council, have announced that MSU students will be admitted to each of the seven programs during the 1978-79 season.

"The University is providing substantial support to the Arts Council and, in turn, we are pleased to admit students to our events," Dr. Davis stated. "Also, we are appreciative of the University's cooperation in making Button Auditorium available for the series."

Dr. Norfleet stated, "We are glad to be in position to assist such a worthy endeavor. The Arts Council has arranged an outstanding series and we are encouraging our faculty and staff members to purchase season memberships."

Other co-sponsors of the series are the Kentucky Arts Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts. Family season tickets are $15, individual season tickets are $8 single $4.

Alumni name president-elect

Wallace Howard of Frankfort was named president-elect of the MSU Alumni Executive Council at the council's recent meeting.

Howard's term will begin on Homecoming 1978 and end homecoming 1979.

In other action, the council:

Approved a study of the Alumni Association in assisting other projects supporting MSU.

Set March 3, 1979 as the fund-raising kick-off dinner.

Requested an alumni weekend be scheduled for July, 1979.

Recommended the association to study the feasibility of an on-campus winter activity.

Set the next meeting for Nov. 18.

Woman's Club schedule announced

Monthly programs are scheduled by the MSU Woman's Club through April 5, 1979 with the installation banquet.

MSU, in cooperation with the Appalachian Educational Satellite Program, will host 10 televised workshops this fall beginning Sept. 18.

These workshops are presented over closed-circuit television. Participants also have the opportunity to direct questions and comments to the panelists during the broadcast.

The workshops are open to students, faculty, staff and the public.

Faculty-staff ID's available

Faculty-staff ID cards will be processed from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursday and Friday in the East Room of the University Center.

The cards are voluntary and free of charge for full-time faculty and staff members. The card includes a listing for special medical information which could be useful in time of an emergency.

Ticket information corrected

Last week's issue of "MSU Update" stated incorrectly that faculty and staff members receive a 50 percent discount on season football tickets.

The discount applies only to "youth" tickets purchased by families holding at least two adult season tickets. We regret the error.

The Eagles open the 1978 football season Saturday at Jayne Stadium against Kentucky State. Kick-off is 1:30 p.m.

Enrollment expected to top last fall totals

MSU's fall enrollment reflects a "slight" increase in the total student population and a "significant" decrease in the number of out-of-state students, President Norfleet announced Monday.

The total enrollment has exceeded last fall's 7,234 and is expected to top 7,400 when other data is processed this week, he stated. As of Monday, the total headcount was 7,305.

MSU has 133 fewer full-time undergraduates from outside Kentucky and has improved its in-state/out-of-state undergraduate enrollment ratio to 79-21, compared to 78 percent and 22 percent last fall.

"We are pleased with these percentages and feel that they represent a significant effort on the part of the University to comply with the out-of-state enrollment policy of the Council on Higher Education," Dr. Norfleet said.

"It should be noted that, when full-time and part-time figures are combined, Kentucky residents comprise 84.26 percent of our total student population," he added.

The percentage change was highest at the freshman level where the proportion of Kentuckians jumped from 75 to 78 percent over last fall, a fact attributed to MSU's summer campaign to reduce its number of in-state "no shows" (admitted students who fail to register for the fall term) and to a drop in applications from out-of-state students.

Gov. Carroll attends Library Tower Dedication Saturday

More than 300 persons attended the formal dedication of the $2.5-million five-story Julian M. Carroll Library Tower Saturday.

Gov. Carroll was on hand for the ceremony Saturday morning then attended the MSU-Tennessee Tech football that afternoon.

President Morris Norfleet called the dedication a "historical event" and added that "it marks another step toward achieving academic excellence."

He added that the "expansion is of the heart of the University, the library."

Gov. Carroll said that he was honored, having the new tower named after him.

Dr. Jack Ellis, director of libraries, added that "a great library is the heart and soul of all learning."

"This facility is absolutely essential," added Dr. Ellis.

Louis R. Hugg, Jr., architect, called the new tower "a functional library facility" that is "essentially complete and ready for occupancy by the University."

The one hour program included opening remarks by Lloyd Cassity, chairman of the MSU Board of Regents; invocation by Dr. Roger Jones, professor of art; music by the MSU Chambers Singers; and dedicatory remarks by President Norfleet.

Don Tucker, of Tucker and Associates Contracting, presented a plaque to be displayed on the outside of the tower. The plaque was accepted by Dr. Ruth Barnes, professor of English; Faye Blecher, associate director of libraries; and Sherry Fawley, student member of the University library committee.

The new tower adds 40,000 square feet to the existing Johnson Camden Library.

President Norfleet added that the tower is dedicated to "the present and future students of this University who come seeking the means of a better life. To the faculty members who guide the learning process and prod those inquiring minds. To the citizens of Kentucky and to the citizens of Eastern Kentucky" and most appropriately to the career of Julian M. Carroll.
